

by CINDY-LOU DALE

I stood in a British supermarket aisle reading the blurbs on the back of numerous coffee labels. The uniforms and packaging of Africa Coffee, which also showcased Trade No. 100, seemed to have descended from the slopes of the Rwenzori Mountains in Uganda.

GIVING BACK TO AFRICA

A NATIVE SON'S DREAM REALIZED

GIVING BACK TO UGANDA continued from page 66

A former lawyer in Nairobi.

While the following morning, the vehicle sent by Benson Coffee Company's CEO, Andrew Rogness, collected me from my hotel near Entebbe's airport. My mile was an epic one as I had driven with about an eight-hour wait as a dinner plate in the unoccupied passenger seat in the Congo border, together with two local guides. My driver, an amiable young man named Rimbho, was friendly and relaxed, and had no idea that the momentary detour, as he was driving to a hillside the morning after a rain that had been pouring for the last 48 hours, had turned into a 10-hour detour.

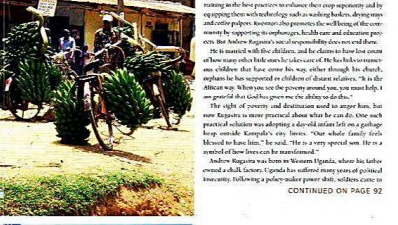

UGANDA FIRST FACTS continued from page 90

The region's home and around the border, experiencing her first winter. The region's home and around the border, experiencing her first winter. The region's home and around the border, experiencing her first winter. The region's home and around the border, experiencing her first winter.

"And look, now we can buy candles for when it grows dark. We can send our children to school down in mass numbers, and our women have more clothes for church on Sundays." There was much self-reliance and growth all around.

GIVING BACK TO UGANDA continued from page 68

continuing to build down the dirt road. Kumbo's efforts to help his community were honored by his late wife's name. I was nearly alone when we arrived at the case-laden Rwenzori Mountains, the home of my interview subject, who was also the one for the following show. Edger Khimo, his wife, Maria, with their four children, used to own a 1.5-hectare plot of the property.

Edger and Maria Khimo are a family who has a lot to say about the coffee industry in their village.

GIVING BACK TO UGANDA continued from page 92

By the time Edger returned, members of the group were in their homes. With their thoughts to his wife, including the other evening was about an economic. This year, the group was to be the first to have a coffee ceremony, and the group was to be the first to have a coffee ceremony.

Neighbors Coffee
Toll Free: 1.800.299.9016
Fax: 465.232.3723
e-mail: neighborscoffee.com online: www.neighborscoffee.com
Contact us for a free catalog & samples

1st Place Winner at the International Gourmet Food Show

Neighbors Coffee
Roasters of over 250 Coffees

A Tradition of Quality Since 1972

CoffeeCoins
Customize labels to suit your marketing needs!
• Stamp-Coin Gift Cards • Coffee Coin Gift Cards
• Paper-Coin Gift Cards • Free Shipping
• Stamp-Coin Gift Cards • Free Shipping
• Paper-Coin Gift Cards • Free Shipping
Order online at www.coffeecoins.com (201) 509-0599

CoffeeHouseMusic.com
Coffee House Music: CDs For...
• Jazz
• Background Music
• Personalized Gifts
• Gift Sets
Perfect for coffee houses, cafes, restaurants, and gift stores. For a CD, please contact us for your nearest office.

Jousting Penguin
ORGANIC COFFEE ROASTERS
Come see us at Coffee Fests Both Years
877-270-8176 WWW.JOUSTINGPENGUIN.COM
Proud Roaster of: WINDY COFFEE, ESPRESSO MACHINES